Presidents' Note

Dear Members,

It seems odd to be composing a winter greeting when the temperature outside has been hovering in the 40s and 50s and the ground is still bare, but the calendar does say December and holiday plans are in full swing. The Wolfeboro Christmas Parade took place the weekend after Thanksgiving and the new, beautiful First Night Puppets made their premier appearance. Jerome Holden, Barbara Gray, Debbie Hopkins and the rest of the puppet crew is to be congratulated for their amazing work, and were rewarded by taking first prize for their entry.

GWAC's fall events proved to be highly successful and well attended. 'Just Desserts' -- our annual fundraiser for the Kingswood High School Visual Arts Scholarship -- was "just delicious" with oodles of tasty goodies and the entertainment by 'Tuckermans at Nine' had everyone toe tappin' and smiling with so many familiar and well-loved tunes.

November's member's exhibit and reception at the Wolfeboro Library was one of the best attended ever. The varied artwork was of the highest quality and beautifully displayed thanks again to Suzette Winchester and her helpers, and featured work from several new members. Marcia Christensen also treated us to a painting demonstration.

As 2012 draws to a close, we of course look forward to Wolfeboro's First Night celebration, now in its nineteenth year. An exciting roster of activities and entertainment for the young and old is planned for the afternoon and evening at several venues throughout the town and, of course, everyone anticipates viewing the two fireworks displays that usher in the New Year.

2013 will present many exciting opportunities for GWAC members. TAG continues to give support and assist artists in displaying their artwork throughout Wolfeboro. The Priscilla Hodges Scholarship committee is busy planning a watercolor painting workshop for the spring. Artists in the Park and Paint the Town committees will be getting together to plan their events, and we need help from all of you! You, our members, are what make this organization so special.

So, when you're making your New Year's resolutions, be sure to include involvement with GWAC near the top of the list. We can use your support and it's likely to be more fun than losing weight or renewing your gym membership! We'll check out that resolution when we resume our meetings in early spring. In the meantime, watch for our electronic e-ART Clips newsletter or visit us at wolfeboroarts.org.

IN MEMORY

Deborah V. Cary
(Oct. 1, 1932 - Nov. 16, 2012)

Past GWAC member and fellow craftperson, Deborah Cary, died tragically in her home of a swift fire, which completely destroyed the custom designed structure by her husband Dick this fall.

Debbie will be remembered for her talented weaving skills and unending patience demonstrating at many of the Artists In The Park events. She was a beloved member of the Lakes Region arts community and gave of her time generously to her church, friends and family.

GWAC DVDs

from Debbie Hopkins.....

Gardens are awaiting their blanket of snow and we know that once the Christmas tree and the trimmings go back into the boxes, a long winter stretches out before us. Along with your reading material from the library, take a look at the DVD selection that the Governor Wentworth Arts Council has sponsored. Videographer Joe Bradley and member Debbie Hopkins have been interviewing local and regional artists and craftsmen who have shared their enthusiasm and talents on camera. (A copy of those interviewed who live outside of Wolfeboro, can be found in their respective libraries.)

The following is a sample of what's available:

Joan Terrio, a Rug Hooking teacher for years, has a wonderful one-on-one

Jennifer Kalled and Jewelry making

Terri White demonstrates "Fairy Houses"

Lee Ann Petropoulos with Mosaics

Susan Poirier talks about Needlework

Brian Stockman demonstrates Wood Carving

Fluer Palau talks about Oil Painting and demonstrates Stone Carving

Lisa Nelthropp shows us samples of Surface Design and Murals

Barbara Bradley, Valerie Christle, Corina Willette show us their Painting talents

Sally Cornwell and Teresa Taylor, both Potters, demonstrate techniques

David Warren, Ship Modeler has work in both the Wright Museum and the Boat Museum

There are most likely a couple hundred or more to choose from!

If anyone would like to suggest an interesting craftsperson, call Debbie Hopkins at 569-4994.

GWAC Visual Arts Scholarship

from Jeannette D'Onofrio

It is my pleasure to announce, once again, the availability of an art scholarship to local students who may need financial assistance to attend a degree-granting college to pursue their Arts degree after attaining their high school diploma in 2013. This award is open to home-schooled students as well.

The award is called "The GWAC Visual Arts Scholarship" and it will be given to a student(s) who has completed the general Common Application (provided through Kingswood High School) as well as provide their college portfolio on disk accompanying the application to us. Disk must contain title, medium and size of piece(s) all high resolution, .jpg files. Portfolio content may contain; traditional artwork (painting, drawing, sculpture, pottery, crafts etc.) as well as photography, jewelry, web design, graphic design, set design, fashion design, 3D animation, video and film.

This award will be made available through the KRHS Guidance office and will be open to home-schoolers completing their academic requirements as well as graduating seniors. Students must be accepted, and show proof of acceptance, to the accredited college when applying for this scholarship.

The combination of the Common Application as well as their current portfolio is to be submitted by April 1st, 2013 to: the GWAC Visual Arts Scholarship Chair, Jeannette D'Onofrio, 17 Grove St. Wolfeboro NH 03894 and will be reviewed by the GWAC Visual Arts Scholarship Committee. The monetary award may be presented in person at the Awards Night at Kingswood High School.

For more details about the award and acceptable portfolio disk files to be submitted, please contact Committee Chair, Jeannette D'Onofrio 603.569.0078 or email: j@virgodesignstudio.com.

GWAC T.A.G. Winter Schedule

from DJ Geribo...

GWAC's The Artists Group (TAG) will be changing the artwork at Huggins Hospital and Granite State News the first week of January, 2013 (watch for an email from DJ Geribo announcing the date and time). If you have not received emails in the past but would like to receive notifications of date/time when artwork is changing, contact DJ at: DJ@DJGeribo.com or call 603.875.0066.

There are also openings for two artists to hang artwork on one of the walls at MVSF for the months of Mar/Apr and May/Jun. If you are interested in hanging your work during those months (Note: artwork must remain for the 2-month duration. When a piece sells, the artist/photographer should have another piece ready to hang), contact DJ Geribo.

So far, the schedule for 2013 at MVSF is as follows:

Jan/Feb: Ken Alger (one person show)

Mar/Apr: Hector Livingston (Opening for another artist on 2nd wall)

May/Jun: Ilona Train (Opening for another artist on 2nd wall)

July: All members are invited (juried show)

Also, I hope you are all working on pieces for the June juried show at the Libby Museum. All members are invited to bring their work for consideration at this special showing. More details will follow.

....Congratulations to Polly Cain who sold a piece of artwork at Meredith Village Savings Bank!

Pam Grady and DJ Geribo at Granite State News offices.

GWAC Meetings In Review

Demonstrators Wanted for GWAC Monthly Meetings

We are looking for artist members who are interested in demonstrating their skills at a monthly meeting. Non-members are also welcome so if you know someone who has an interesting artistic skill, please ask them to consider demonstrating. If you would like to share your skills with other members by doing an hour demo (GWAC pays $50 to demonstrators), contact DJ Geribo at DJ@DJGeribo.com or call 603.875.0066. We can determine the month when you are available for demonstrating and what you might have time to cover in your hour demo. We are looking for painters, photographers, and crafters who make pottery, jewelry, stained glass, etc., any skill you think others might be interested in learning about. We can all learn from each other and GWAC is providing you with the opportunity to share your skills with your peers!

During the past couple of years we've seen demonstrations by artists who have painted in watercolor, pastels, oils, and charcoal with subjects from landscapes to portraits. We had a scratchboard artist and a couple of different mixed media artists. We also saw a demonstration on airbrushing, a tool that many watercolorists use to cover large areas. We are hoping this coming year we will have as many interesting and varied subjects to share with all members at the monthly meetings!

Museum of Fine Arts, Boston

HOURS

The MFA is open 7 days a week.

The Postcard Age

Selections from the Leonard A. Lauder Collection

October 24, 2012 - April 14, 2013 Torf Gallery, 184

In the decades around 1900, postcards were Twitter, e-mail, Flickr, and Facebook, all wrapped into one. A postcard craze swept the world, as billions of cards were bought and mailed, or just pasted into albums. Many famous artists turned to the new medium, but one of the great pleasures of postcards is how some of the most beautiful and interesting cards were made by artists whose names we barely know. This unprecedented exhibition traces how big historical and cultural themes of the modern age—enthraling, exciting, and sometimes disturbing—played out on the postcard's tiny canvas.

"The Postcard Age" features about 400 cards by a wide variety of artists and publishers from throughout Europe and the Americas. It is arranged not by style or country, but by theme, with sections devoted to, among other things, urban life, the changing role of women, sports, celebrity, new technologies, the stylish collectors' cards of the art nouveau, and World War I. The result is a vivid picture of the cares and concerns of the age and a tempting sampler of the artistic and historical riches found in the Leonard A. Lauder Postcard Archive, the lifetime project of Leonard Lauder and a promised gift to the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston.

Visiting
Masterpieces
Cézanne's The Large Bathers
February 2, 2013 -
May 12, 2013

Gallery 255

(Paul Cézanne, The Large Bathers (detail), 1906. Oil on canvas. Philadelphia Museum of Art: Purchased with the W.P. Wistach Fund.)

An extraordinary loan from the Philadelphia Museum of Art gives you the opportunity to see two of the great masterpieces of French painting in America hanging side by side: Paul Cézanne's The Large Bathers and the MFA's own Where do we come from? What are we? Where are we going? by Paul Gauguin. Painted from 1900–1906 and 1897–1898, respectively, these works form a bridge from the 19th to 20th century and influenced a generation of modern artists that included Picasso and Matisse. Both pictures address a classical tradition of representing the idealized nude in an idyllic landscape, yet both also break with convention, conjuring radically new visions of earthly paradise. Exhibited together for the first time in Boston, the paintings will be on view as part of the MFA's Visiting Masterpieces series in the Sidney and Esther Rabb Gallery.

MUSEUM PASSES
